Bangkok, Thailand, 6 September, 2017 – The 8th edition of MEDICAL FAIR THAILAND was officially opened this morning by Dr. Natchanapong Vajiravongburi (Center), Inspector General, Ministry of Science and Technology. The 3-day exhibition at Queen Sirikit National Convention Center is the largest of its kind in the Southeast Asian region with a record-breaking exhibitor participation and international representation led by 18 national pavilions and country groups. Set against a backdrop where the government's economic development plan under Thailand 4.0 has earmarked the medical sector as a whole (medical tourism and medical hub under S Curve) as one of the country's key growth engines to accelerate Thailand's future growth, MEDICAL FAIR THAILAND is a must-attend sourcing and procurement event intended to boost the country's medical technology capabilities.

The exhibition presents more than 5,000 products and a full suite of equipment and supplies as well as new innovations for hospital, diagnostic, pharmaceutical, medical and rehabilitation use. Other highlights of the exhibition include focus on applying 'Robotics for Mobility (to improve) the Quality of Life for the Ageing World', augmenting prevention, monitoring and treatment services with the latest digital- and technology-enabled products to enhance connectivity between healthcare providers and patients. Exhibits ranging from machines for robotic surgery, 3D printing, implantable devices, automation for artificial intelligence-led clinical setting will all contribute to Thailand's robust development as a smart medical centre for the region.
